Wanda L. Cheatham was born January 11, 1947 to the late Raymond & Ollie Cheatham.

Preceded her in death were her grandparents, three brothers and two sisters.

Wanda was born in Hugo, Oklahoma: And grew up in Oklahoma City where she became a member of St. Mary's C.M.E. Church, and accepted Christ.

Wanda's mother was a strong Christian lady who instilled in all of her children about the love of our heavenly father and his son Jesus Christ. With that teaching Wanda became a strong believer in Jesus Christ and took her belief with her to the end of her life.

Wanda worked at Globe Life Insurance in Oklahoma City for many years until her health began to fail.

Wanda loved her children and family. She loved when family came to visit and never wanted them to leave; she made you feel most welcome and comfortable in her home and always had something to talk about. Wanda was known for using many colloquialisms for instance "Throw a rock and hide your hand" or "eight dollars above the rent." We didn't always know what that meant, however we always enjoyed hearing them.

Wanda married Lincoln Taylor, and to this union three children were born. They made their home in Los Angeles California for many years.

Wanda departed this life on Saturday, October 18, 2014 in Los Angeles California while in her daughters' care.

She leaves to cherish in her memory her children, Prescott Mitchell of Oklahoma City, Lincoln (Christy) Taylor, of Las Vegas Nevada, Wanda L. Taylor of Los Angeles California, Silas W.
