Obituary

Freddie Kaye Brown was born March 21, 1939 in Anadarko, Oklahoma. She was the third of eight children born. Freddie was born to Fred Russell and Exzetta Beatrice Cruikshank. She departed this life on Friday, July 26, 2019 at the age of 80.

While attending Lincoln High School in Anadarko, Oklahoma, Freddie garnered praise as an outstanding basketball player and later became a cheerleader. She met James Clinton Norwood of Anadarko during her high school days. The couple dated, fell in love and were married in the winter of 1955, two years prior to her graduating in 1957. From this marital union two children were born, James Clinton Jr. and Constance Arnette. During the month of August, year 1959, Freddie gave birth to a beautiful daughter, Deborah Ann. After James and Freddie divorced amicably, she met and wedded Billy Joe Banks of Chickasha, Oklahoma. To this relationship three children were born, Anthony Fredrick, Lorrie Ann, and Marcus Dewayne. Following the couples divorce, Freddie met and married Air National Guardsman John A. Brown, of Anadarko, in June 1973. In November of 1975, Jonathan Bernard was born to Freddie and John. In addition to the birth of Jonathan, John A. Brown adopted Deborah Ann, Anthony Fredrick, Lorrie Ann and Marcus Dewayne from a previous union.

Mrs. Brown accepted Christ at an early age as she was led by her praying grandmother, who taught her how to pray and trust God. As she grew spiritually, Freddie became a Sunday school teacher and assistant superintendent at Greater First Baptist Church in Anadarko, OK. The fruit of her labor is still cherished to this day. Later in Freddie's life, she often shared stories about those opening prayers at old First Baptist Church in Anadarko, OK. She shared how those prayers inspired her deeply.

Freddie worked for 19 years at Holleytex Carpet Mill in Anadarko, Oklahoma. Due to job transfers for husband, John A. Brown, the family moved several times. First to Hinton, Oklahoma and later transferred to Wewoka, Oklahoma. While living in Wewoka, Freddie worked for a Home Health Agency caring for elderly patients. The family then moved to Tulsa, Oklahoma in 1989 where Freddie ended her working career at Zebco Outdoor Sporting Goods. She worked at Zebco's for twelve years.

Before Mrs. Brown health began to fail, she served tirelessly at the North Peoria Church of Christ, Tulsa Oklahoma, where she was a faithful member for 30 years. She enjoyed serving on the kitchen committee, former Sunday school teacher, facilitated the Christian women's group, monthly women's Bible study and other women ministries at her church. Sister Brown loved to make people smile and bring a sense of joy into their lives. She was a cheerful giver of her time and resources.

Previous to her last hospital stay, Freddie frequently visited Our Lord's Community Church with her daughter and son-in-law, Constance and Ronnie Ladd. She enjoyed the worship songs and the Word of God. Freddie was able to witness the baby dedication of her great-grandson, Rayce August Ladd, better known to her as "Boo Boo".

Freddie Kaye will always be remembered for her strength and loving spirit.

"Granny" loved her family deeply. Preceding her in death are her parents, Fred Russell, Sr. and Exzetta Cruikshank, four brothers Chadworthy (Lucille) McKenzie, Marcus (Wayne) Nuckols, Opal (Adellia) Leonard Nuckols, and Richard (Christine) Leroy Nuckols. One sister Betty Jo (John) Adams and one son James (Debbie) Norwood Jr.

Freddie leaves to cherish her memory, husband John A. Brown of Tulsa, OK, one brother, Tyrone Fuller of Norman, OK, three sisters, Bobbie Swift of Anadarko, OK, Carnellia Mae (Garfield, Sr.) Doakes of Edmond, OK, Lonzetta (Dock) Brown of Joliet, Illinois. Six children, Constance (Rodney Sr.) Ladd of Edmond, OK, Deborah Brown of Oklahoma City, OK, Lorrie Brown of Edmond, OK, Anthony (Carla) Brown of Oklahoma City, OK, Marcus (Geri) Brown of Midwest City, OK, Jonathan (Emily) Brown of Tulsa, OK, Along with nineteen grandchildren, twenty-two great grandchildren, and a host of nieces, nephews, cousins and friends.
