ACKNOWLEDGMENT

I would like to thank everyone at the Integris Neurology Department, especially Dr. Salins for taking care of Winston over the last 5 plus years. You took care of Winston in good times and bad times. You would call me personally to reassure me of the treatment and care of Winston. You made his last few years on this earth some of the most comfortable years he had in a long time, and I am forever grateful. SPECIAL THANKS TO: Dr. Michael D. John MD & Family, Terry Jamison, Johnny McGuinness, Dr. Salomi Salins and Everything Goes Dance.

Obituary

Winston-Douglass Jamison, 26, left this world on October 30, 2021. Winston's death was due to complications of Lennox-Gastaut Syndrome, which he had been fighting with courage and dignity for some time.

Winston was born on 04/29/1995 to the parent of Brandi Jamison and Kris Datillo in Oklahoma City, where he spent the majority of his life living. Winston grew up the majority of his childhood as a single child but got a brother later in his teenage yrs. He attended West Moore High School until he was placed in homebound school due to his epilepsy. Winston's dream was to join the military and go into Architecture but due to his medical condition those dreams couldn't be fulfilled. At the age of 17 years old Winston meet Mariah, they hit it off right away became partners. Three years later, Winston and Mariah welcome Marley into this world, which was one of the two biggest points of pride in his heart. Winston put his focus on raising this daughter in the best way possible, being the best brother possible to Kingston. Winston was Kingston's biggest cheerleader and loudest fan. He attended dance practice with his brother, never missed a performance, and would go out of his way to make sure Kingston had enough support. Winston was every so present father, he talked to Marley daily, sometimes multiple times just so she knew she was loved, wanted, and cared for. Winston wanted everyone to feel wanted, needed and loved and he made sure of that with the most important people in his life.

Winston leaves behind, his parents, grandparents Terry and Susan Jamison, his daughter Marley, his brother Kingston, and his best friend and all-around support system Johnnie McGuinness, and many aunts, uncles, cousins, and friends.

In his life, Winston taught us that it's not only blood that can make one family, but also loyalty, and friendship. We will remember Winston as the brightest of lights, with a contagious smile. He was a peaceful soul, often being calm, in all the chaos that life can bring. His presence was that of a gentle giant. LET US ALL REMEMBER HIM AS ONE.
