Obituary

Joyce Laverne Cooper was born on November 3, 1949 to Mildred Holmes and Earl Watkins in Stillwater, Oklahoma. She was called “Sissy” by her younger sister.

She attended Harrison Elementary School in Oklahoma City. After relocating to California, Joyce graduated from Delano High School then obtained an Associates Degree from Bakersfield College.

Prior to moving back to Oklahoma, she worked as a social worker where she enjoyed interacting with children.

Her dream of having three children of her own were realized when she wed Kenneth Cooper and was blessed with a son, daughter and bonus daughter.

Upon her return to Oklahoma, she held several positions at Southwestern Bell.

During her career, Joyce won many contests and received accolades for her work ethic including recognition for three years of perfect attendance. Joyce also formed friendships with her coworkers that lasted beyond her 30 years with the company.

Well known for being business savvy, others sought the former Revenue Management Rep for advice regarding benefits and finances long after her retirement.

Joyce was a faithful member of Garden Baptist Church for over 40 years. Despite the circumstances preventing her regular attendance, she continued to tithe.

Fond of elephants, Joyce shared their traits of strength, determination, loyalty and protectiveness.

Preceded in death by her father and grandparents, Joyce leaves to cherish her memory: mother, Mildred (Raymond) Halstied of Oklahoma City, OK; son Kenneth (Janet) Cooper II of Oklahoma City, OK; daughters Malika Botchway of Oklahoma City, OK and Marsha Cooper of Tulare, CA; sister Carla (Billy) Broughton of Spencer, Oklahoma as well as eight grandchildren, eleven great grandchildren and a host of other relatives and friends.
